

Java Client for Comic Books

BARBEROT Mathieu & RACENET Joan

UFR ST

May 14, 2012

Tutors:
BOUQUET Fabrice
COQBLIN Mathias

Context

- Multi-platform
- In relation with the website BDovore
- Managing comics collection
- Doing it offline

Table of contents

- The Software
 - Managing albums
 Statistics and Configuration
 Unachieved features
- Reinforcing the software Laying the foundation
- Web Service and Synchronization Web Service Synchronization
- 4 To be continued...

Managing albums

- Search for an album
- Consult album's details
- Add or remove an album of the collection

naging albums

Statistics and Configuration Unachieved features

Managing albums

Statistics and Configuration

- Statistics about the user's collection
- Proxy configuration and user's login and password

Unachieved features

- The search engine
- The web service
- The synchronization

Reinforcing the software

- Working with an other student's software
- Understanding what they have done
- Theirs architecture & code

Laying the foundation

- Merge the two softwares in an only one
- Set the new database
- Check and update queries
- New tools: Lucene and H2

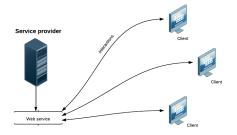

Web Service and Synchronization

- Connecting to the website
- Synchronizing the libraries
- Prepared by previous students
- But not implemented

Web Service

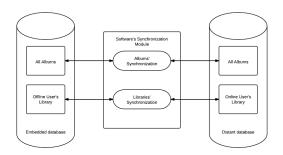

- Provide a list of functionnalities
- Layer between the server and the client

Synchronization

- Keeping both library up to date
- Automatically resolve differences
- Report unsolvable conflicts

To be continued...

- Web service and synchronization finished
- But the project is not
- Submit an album
- A more user friendly interface